PERSONAL PROFILE

Louise is an enthusiastic and energetic personality with good interpersonal and communication skills, developed over 12 years working as a paediatric physiotherapist in both the NHS and privately. Louise is Bobath trained and is advancing her practice into Sensory Integration. She is highly specialised in the areas of neurological disability and multi sensory impairments', such as acquired brain injury and cerebral palsy. Louise has a wide experience of working in conjunction with other therapists and children's services to provide to high quality service to children and their families. Having two children of her own Louise understands how important play is to children and is passionate about engaging children in their therapy, through play, to achieve long-term goals. Currently she is developing Pilates classes for children with co-ordination disorders and mild to moderate neurological disorders.
